Prominent Omaha
Sponsors

SULLINGER DIRECTS STUDY

The Department of Sociology under the direction of Professor T. Earl Sullinger has established an Institute for Social Research. Following the example of other universities the research work has begun through the co-operation of students with city groups interested in such study. Such Institutes are present at the Universities of North Carolina, Virginia, Chicago, and the municipal universities at Akron, Ohio and Cincinnati, Ohio.

Has Advisory Committee

An advisory committee of prominent Omaha men has been formed to make available the sources of social information. Among the advisors are Judge Howard Kennedy, formerly judge of the Juvenile Court; Dr. H. Von Schulte, dean of the Creighton university and President of the Nebraska State Social Workers; Mr. Reed, director of the Omaha Community Chest; Mr. Robertson, executive secretary of the Omaha Associated Charities; and Dr. Samuel Gerson, director of the Jewish Welfare Federation.

Through the efforts of the advisory board, the members of the department, and the correlating agencies, some effective studies and reports are being planned for the coming year.

Vartanian Opens New Bible Class

Director of Religious Education
Has Conducted Twenty-Nine
Study Groups

On Thursday evening, Oct. 3, the First Central Congregational Church of Omaha held a banquet to promote Bible study groups in that church. Over 111 persons were present to hear talks given by Dwight Porter of Technical High School, Dr. Frank G. Smith, pastor of the church, and Dr. V. H. Vartanian of the Religious Education department of the University of Omaha.

Mr. Porter emphasized the great need for students who understand the Bible in the new age of machines. Dr. Smith declared that exact knowledge of the Bible is the most important thing to be learned today.

Smith Introduces

Dr. Vartanian was introduced by Dr. Smith, who declared "we have the greatest opportunity offered us for the study of the Bible in the person of Dr. Vartanian."

A new class under Dr. Vartanian is open to all members of the Congregational church and members of other churches. The program of the meetings is to be opened with a dinner followed by classes at eight o'clock every Thursday evening in the church parlors.

"Vital Experiences of Jesus Applied to Present Day Problems" is the subject for discussion in the course.

Vartanian Has 29 Classes
The new class will make the twenty-ninth one conducted by Dr. Vartanian in New York, Iowa and Nebraska. This number does not include week day classes with college and high school students nor conventions or student camps. In the majority of the classes the average attendance has been 175.

Registration for the new class is open. The First Congregational Church, through Dr. Smith, assures that everyone will be welcome.

SHLANTA WILL APPEAR

Professor Hughana Shlanta is appearing in a group of numbers at the North Omaha Women's Club, on October 9, at which time the program will be in charge of the Barnoga School assembly.

DEAN STEVENS SPEAKS AT OMAHA QUOTA CLUB MEET

Mrs. Rene Stevens, dean of Women, talked to the members of the Quota Club on Thursday, October 3, regarding her recent trip to Europe.

The club is composed of business and professional women with Mrs. Stevens as dean. From the interest shown in the lecture, Dean Stevens predicts that several members of the Quota Club will join the University of Omaha tour next summer.

Women's Sponsor Urges Youth
To Find Peace In Words
of Bible

Heleen Hasselblad, chairman of the program committee, led the first meeting of the Y. W. C. A. held in the Conservatory, Oct. 1. Gertrude True played two saxophone solos accompanied on the piano by Irene Gooseman.

Officers Are Introduced

The purpose of this meeting was to acquaint the women of the school with the officers of the organization. Cleo McGuire, the president of the Omaha Y. W. introduced Mrs. Rene Stevens, Dean of Women of the University and sponsor of the Y. W. Mrs. Stevens said that the chief concern of the Y was to produce great individuals, by developing personality. She stated that the consensus of opinion has been that Model of conduct and of life is found in Christ, the greatest example of the ages.

"Take Time to Read"

"Great lives are full of overcoming difficulties," said Mrs. Stevens. Reiterating this statement, she said that great characters have not been found to have an easy life on a "bed of roses." Mrs. Stevens suggested that as the students find they have problems or difficulties, they should take time to read their Bibles and find how Jesus solved such problems. "And it is surprising to know," she said, "that Jesus really did solve every sort of problem that we have to solve today."

Cleo McGuire expressed her pleasure at the good attendance Tuesday morning and asked each girl to pass on the friendly spirit which the Y stands for and to individually bring one other girl to the next meeting.

Freshman Class Elects Officers

At the meeting held Friday, Oct. 4, the Freshman class elected the following officers for the semester:

President, Ray Hansen.
Vice-president, Bob McClung.
Secretary, Marlan Rea.
Treasurer, Shelby Gamble.
Sergeants-at-arms, Miriam Ringer, Charles Gardiner.
Student Council representative, Hector Evans.

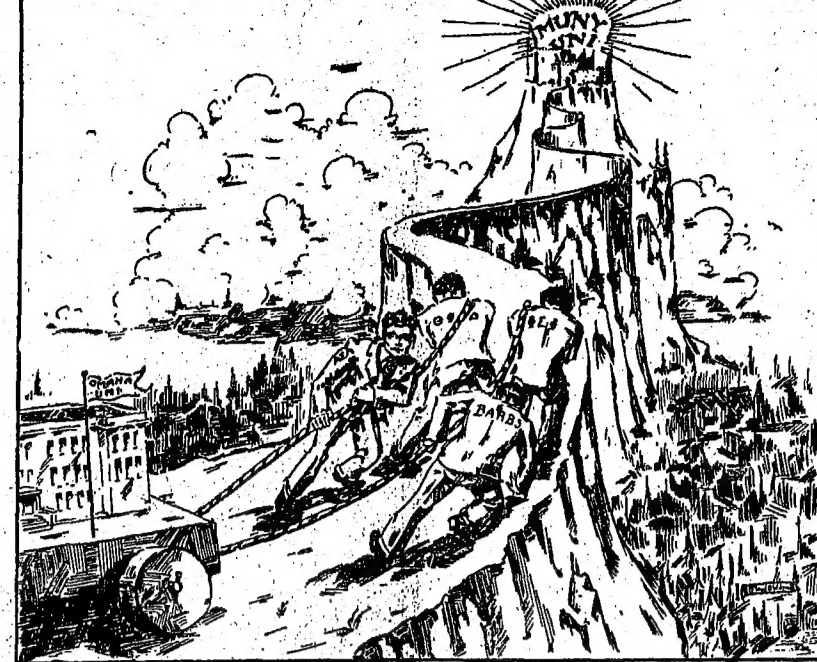

NOVEL CONTEST IS OPEN

News of a $3,000 college novel contest has been received at The Gateway office. College Humor and Doubleday, Doran & Co., Inc., are co-operating in offering the above prize for a story of college life by a member of the younger generation. The sum of $3,000 will be paid for the right to serialize the winning story in College Humor and print it in book form, and will be in addition to all royalties accruing from book publication.

The contest will close on midnight, October 16, 1929. All manuscripts, of 15,000 to 100,000 words, must be sent in typed form to the Campus Prize Novel Contest, College Humor, Inc., Doubleday, Doran & Company, Inc.

Kubat Is President Of New Pep Club

The Cardinal Pep Squad was organized Thursday, October 3, with the following officers: President, Joe Kubat; vice-president, Corrine Jensen; secretary-treasurer, Leah Daubenheyer; and business manager, Norwood Woerner.

This club is making plans for organized student pep groups with a school costume. Special jackets for both boys and girls are now being ordered. The cheer leaders will have jackets of red trimmed in black, with the cardinal emblem on the shoulder, while the Pep Club will have jackets of black trimmed in red. Orders are being taken by Leah Daubenheyer.

Membership will be enlarged by an elimination vote, but all applications should be filed at once by students interested.

University Choir Has Twenty-Five Voices

The University Vested Choir rehearsed Thursday noon, October 3, in the Conservatory Auditorium, under the direction of Professor Noel J. Logan. Concentrated study has been begun on several sacred and secular numbers.

To date 25 students have been chosen as members of the choir. They are: Sopranos—Louise Woepel, Gretchen Kramer, Elizabeth Curtis, Grace Runsteen, Helen Mosher, Elizabeth Morton, Maxine Delavan, Ellouise Jetter, Ruth Mucil, and Eleanor Blubaugh; Contraltos—Marjorie Thomas, Anita Benson, Marjorie Lyle, Elizabeth Chase, and Virginia Ramme; tenors—Guy Nussbaum, Howard Hansen, Bruce Gideon, Hoyt Griffin, and Sam Thomas; Basses—Joe Wandscheer, Phillip Rickabaugh, Clark Wohlers, and Charles Gardiner.

Cardinal Sub Narrates Story of Muddy Trip to Tarkio Saturday

PLAYERS FINISH JOURNEY IN CATTLE TRUCKS

Omaha newspapers gave the University of Omaha game with Tarkio, Missouri, small attention. Omaha seemed to have had a lucky break in getting across one lone touchdown in the last four seconds of the game. Skeptical at such insinuation, The Gateway conducted a research and has brought to light the following story as given to reporters by a member of the Omaha team:

"I suppose everybody has heard of Iowa mud. For the most of us it has been mere hearing. For the University of Omaha football team it is the real thing after having experienced a trip through it to Tarkio last Saturday.

"We left Twenty-fourth and Ames at seven o'clock Saturday morning. Thirty-four players, three coaches, and the director of athletics and his family made up the load. One thirty-passenger bus and four automobiles were secured for the trip.

"The first sixty-eight miles of the journey went fine due to the new strip of pavement between Omaha and Hamburg, Iowa.

Cars Hit Mud

"We left Hamburg at 10:10, went 24 miles further and then the fun began, also the mud. We encountered mud, mud, and more mud. And Tarkio had said the roads were fine! Such mud we had never seen. It wasn't this playful mud that we used to make mud pie out of, but it was gummy, sticky, yellow stuff—plain Iowa gumb. The roads were in good enough condition for cars to pass, provided they had chains on the tires. The heavy, two-wheeled bus slid and floundered about even when empty and several times came within a hair-breadth of going into the ditch.

"Finally, after pushing the bus up seven hills and progressing but six miles in the good time of two hours and twenty minutes we decided to do something. The driver refused to submit his machine to further punishment and there we were, marooned. Six miles of mud were behind us and eighteen equally muddy miles were ahead of us. It was then 12:40 and the game was scheduled to start at 2:30. What were we to do?

Dunlap Drives Through

"A. J. Dunlap decided to take a load of players 'on to Tarkio' in his family car. The rest of the players began hailing rides and bumbling lifts from other travelers with light cars, who seemed to get through fairly well. Our quarterback hooked a ride in a Buick coupe and got as far as Rockport, which was only eight miles from Tarkio. He started to walk the rest of the way and was picked up near Tarkio about 1:30.

"The rest of the Dunlap family rode to the game in a cattle truck with some of the players. The rest of the fellows got to Tarkio in some way or another. When the bus stopped in Hamburg before hitting the mud, Kuntseman mounted the top of the car and began a bellyhoo about poor football chasers. Dunlap passed the hat and collected twenty-four cents. This same twenty-four cents came into good usage when two of the fellows bummed sandwiches off a farmer on the way to Tarkio.

Green Apples For Lunch

"A little farmer boy having sympathy in his heart at seeing big football boys starve to death, came to the rescue with a basket of green apples. And that was all some of the players had to eat before the game started.

"We bargained with a truck driver to bring the football team to Tarkio and soon were busy transferring the paraphernalia from the marooned bus to a little Ford truck. Then we went to Tarkio, leaving the

PRACTICE TEACHERS ASSIGNED TO SCHOOLS

Practice teachers were assigned to the various public schools of the city last week by Mrs. Chas. T. Chittenden.

Those assigned to the elementary schools include: Frances Green, fourth grade at Kellom School; Frances Koopman, second grade at Central School; Gladys Mann, fourth grade at Dundee School; Elizabeth McClusky, first grade at Mason School; Gall Savidge, second grade at Walnut Hill School; and Phyllis Warriek, sixth grade at Hawthorne School.

In the high school section assigned to South High Schools are the following: Corrine Jensen, ninth grade Community Civics; Kenneth Jensen, Community Civics; Leah Daubenheyer, Modern History; Katherine Bloss, Junior English; Alice Jacobsen, Sophomore English; and Lucille Clizbe, American History.

Frosh Guests of Lambda Phi Frat

Mossman Urges Pre-Lawyers to Uphold American Tradition
In Future Life

Lambda Phi, law fraternity of the University of Omaha, entertained on Friday evening, October 4, at the Elks' Club, for the Freshmen of the Law College.

Dr. E. W. Emery opened the meeting, emphasizing the relationship between the Law College and the Arts and Science College. Dr. Emery gave further information on the plans for a municipal college.

Miss Luella Cannan and Boghdan Shlanta of the Conservatory of Music entertained with "Frasquita," by Kreisler; "In Life's Twilight," by Godfrey Ludlaw; and "Brahm's Waltz."

Harland L. Mossman, professor of Elementary Law, delivered the main address of the evening.

Mossman Delivers Address

"Every lawyer owes a debt to his profession," Mr. Mossman declared. "Lawyers have always been above the common class in intellect. 'Hordes of men in legislative profession have always upheld American traditions and ideals of government when seriously threatened by councils, legislatures and even Congress."

"Barber Trio" Sings

Further entertainment for the Freshmen guests was furnished by the "Barber Shop Trio" in the persons of Ralph Baird, Clark Wahlers, and Howard Fischer. Sentimental memories of youth were brought back to the tunes of "Sweet Adeline" and "That Old Gang of Mine."

Lambda Phi will hold the next meeting on October 17, according to Mr. Schroeder.

Hugh O. Orr Gives Lecture on O'Neill

Hugh O. Orr, instructor in Modern Literature at the University of Omaha, gave a short lecture on Eugene O'Neill, author of "Strange Interlude" on Monday morning. This lecture was open to any student or faculty member interested.

The talk was particularly interesting at this time since Mr. O'Neill's play was given in Omaha, Oct. 7 and 8, and will play again tonight at the Grandis Theatre.

CHEMISTRY CLUB ELECTS

The Chemistry Club at a meeting Thursday, October 3, elected officers for the coming year. Alden Johnson was chosen as president and other officers are as follows: Vice-president, Harold Westrom, and secretary, Kenneth Strawn.

The Chemistry Club is open to any who are interested in the work and is extending a cordial invitation to everyone to visit the interesting meetings scheduled for this year.

Labor Endorses Municipal Move

A. F. L. President William Green
Heartily Endorses Greater
Omaha Plan

"EDUCATION DEMOCRATIZATION"

William M. Baxter, chairman of the Greater Omaha association publicity committee, has received the following letter from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who "heartily commends" the program for a municipal university in Omaha.

Mr. Green's letter, dated at Washington, is as follows:

"The American Federation of Labor has always given whole-hearted support to our public school system and other tax-supported institutions of learning."

Opens New Opportunities

"Although the American Federation of Labor has never taken any official position with regard to municipal universities, it is perfectly obvious that this institution is a step toward further democratization of education by opening new opportunities for higher education to groups that could not afford to attend the state university. I am heartily glad to subscribe my official endorsement of the 'municipal university' movement."

Workers Study

"In Toledo where there is a municipal university, the Central Labor union and organized workers of the community have found real opportunities for study. They have had a voice in planning educational undertakings as well as having been represented in the classes."

Education Agencies Started

"At the last convention of the American Federation of Labor we directed the workers' education bureau to endeavor to assist state federations of labor in setting up co-operative relations with state universities so that wider opportunities for education for workers through tax supported agencies might become an integral part of our workers' education undertakings. The development of municipal universities would provide similar agencies even closer at home."

"I sincerely wish you success in your undertakings and heartily commend the principals involved to the organized workers of Omaha."

Five Extension Courses Offered

Omaha Extends Class Range to Council Bluffs and South
Omaha

Plans for the extension department in Council Bluffs, Iowa, were completed on Monday, Oct. 2, when members from the Education department of the university and teachers of the Council Bluffs schools met in the City Library. Five extension courses from the University of Omaha are now started in Council Bluffs.

The courses offered are: Traditional Examinations and New Type Tests to be taught by Irwin A. Hamner on Monday from 7 until 8; Teaching of Reading in the Elementary School by Miss Ida Long on Thursday from 7 until 9; Modern Drama by Hugh O. Orr on Monday from 4 until 6; Browning by Dean W. Gilbert Jones from 4:30 until 6:30; and Spanish by R. J. Maxwell on Wednesday from 4 until 6.

James Teacher at South
Dean James is offering an extension course for teachers at South High School on the subject Techniques of High School Teaching. The class meets every Monday and Friday from 4 until 6.

The Omaha teachers who attended the meeting at Council Bluffs are: Dean James, L. O. Taylor, E. J. Jones, Irwin A. Hamner, and Miss Ida Long. The Omaha teachers who attended the meeting at Council Bluffs are: Dean James, L. O. Taylor, E. J. Jones, Irwin A. Hamner, and Miss Ida Long.

Omaha Needs a Municipal University

We learn in Sociology that all society originates in the association of two persons who form a group. The groups grow together and eventually form what is known as society. There are many kinds of society. Some societies are for political purposes and quite naturally center around the White House where all governmental roads lead. Other groups are called economic and we find them here and there throughout the country-side, each engaged in the economic side of life. Another group is engaged in the task of becoming educated and these groups are found where the greatest opportunities for education are offered.

Omaha has an educational group. To hold that group, we must obtain greater opportunities for education than are now offered. William Green of the American Federation of Labor heartily endorses the municipal university movement stating, "such an institution is a step further toward democratization of education by opening new opportunities for higher education to groups that could not afford to attend the state university."

There are countless other reasons for the municipal university program. The logical thing to do, now that Omaha has an educational group which it possibly may lose, is to start the belated municipal institution at once. If the voting public of Omaha will search out logical facts, the city will retain the present educational group. Omaha needs a municipal university.

BE ACTIVE TO GROW

One of the principles of Biology states that to be alive is to be active. Continuing further in the statement one may read that neither the race nor the individual can long exist when activity ceases to be an important factor in the life of that race or individual.

With institutions which are the products of either the race or individual the principle also holds true. Each person connected with such an institution must do his share to keep it alive, or growth and life, will cease.

This fact is no less true of the University of Omaha than any other institution. At the present time it seems to be one live, kicking piece of activity. However, there are some things about the program of the school that are not being entirely fulfilled. There are also some students who have not yet taken it upon themselves to do their share toward making this program a success.

Each individual knows when he stops to consider the matter whether his activity as a member of the school justifies his existence as a member. And if any, when he has thus questioned himself, should find the answer to be in the negative, let him set out at once to find a task that needs doing and snap into the doing of it.

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

Merchants and business men who advertise in The Gateway are boosting for the University of Omaha. The Gateway is financed through subscription and advertising. Without either, the paper would fail. When we are out to buy something, let's make it a point to get it from a merchant who advertises in The Gateway. These men have faith in the university. Let us keep our faith with them.

One of the cheerers came home from the game Saturday all bunged up. Not being a player, some inquiry was made. He said he got in the wrong rooting section.

Will the gentleman who took two girls riding in my car Saturday afternoon please return the overcoat left in the car?

It isn't wise to judge people that way—Dempsey's favorite song may be "Tunney Boy."

I hear the boys didn't do so well with Scotch college. They say their line wouldn't give.

The Gateway is now a tri-weekly paper—it tries to get out every week.

One of our brethren opines that a fellow would be in a bad way if he had St. Vitus' dance and rheumatism at the same time.

Now don't tell me that you've heard the one about the Scotchman who wore his old clothes on a blind date.

A football game is certainly a fine picture with a team song running all the way through it.

I call my girl federal reserve because she puts my money in circulation. Oh, Yeah!

One of the boys at our house is so absent-minded he went to the post office to mail a letter he hadn't even written.

Fate Deals Rummy Hand on Vocation

FIND THE MORAL

It is a truism and a dismal one indeed that Fate misdealt many a rummy hand when she shuffled the calling cards in that universal and magnanimous game called Vocation.

I don't know who is responsible for the new invincible tumbler locks on the lockers, but he'll get—

Anyway, students appear to be too much in the safe-cracking pose these days. They're developing sensitive fingers and round shoulders.

A fair-haired Freshie with the maternal kiss fresh on his brow came to Omaha U. He had a sweet and trustful disposition. Nevertheless his first thought was to procure a locker. He did. He seemed pleased. He was so pleased that he spent all available time in fingering the beloved knob and hearing the tumblers click. He did not confine himself to the one locker. He would pass a row of the tin oblongs and twirl each knob in hilarious glee. "Boy, hear them tumblers click!" he was wont to say. Of course, nothing but the sweet, rhythmic dropping click interested him.

One day, rushing between classes to finger the knob so dear to him, he twirled it right and left and then right again swung open the door with a rattle (not a child's rattle) and— I was standing near the window reading a treatise on North American Fauna—he shrieked. He yelled. He

Food For Thought

The way Huff sprinted down the field the other day you would think he was out for the "Cross Country." He didn't cross the country but he did cross the goal line.

Many saw the Graff Zeppelin make a safe landing when Barber went over for a touchdown.

Example of economy—A course in economics without books.

English Literature makes me "Moody" but still I "Lovett."

Even though the Tarkio game was played in the mud, the report is that it was a clean game. At least no one got dirt in their eyes.

Sediak reports that while he was in the hospital with a broken leg, he had his face washed four times every morning by four different nurses. And now the casualty list is growing like wild-fire.

Fraley claims that the new electric washer in the men's dormitory is all right except that every time he gets in the thing the paddles knock him off his feet.

HOW TO BE A CO-ED

Carry a package of cigarettes around in your hand.

Pretend you are hiding when you put on the lip-stick.

Say you're "Oh, so cold" when riding four in a roadster.

Let your date know that you are never hungry.

Sigh "Yes, yes" to sorority sisters and then go with whom you like.

Sign your name to stuff like this.

howled. Oh, Oh, Oh, I've been robbed—Oh, Oh, my Algebra book is gone! Oh. Oh. wow!

The poor kid broke down walling, and it was merely an Algebra book too! I felt foolish and expanded my feeble efforts in trying to console him; but he would have none of it. I myself was very near the verge of tears when a newcomer rounded the corner.

"Hey, you, two," he rasped, "what's all this wallin' for?"

I explained to him between sobs and sniffles and pointed to the locker which was minus one good Algebra book. He looked at the locker. He started at the locker—by this time I too had my handkerchief in hand—he yelled, slammed the locker door, twirled the knob and looked it securely. Then turning to me he whispered, "Break it easy to the kid, you might not know it, but he opened my locker by mistake. His is to the left of mine. I think you will find his Algebra book there. Gosh that kids a genius break it easy"

With that he left me and, staring at his retreating form, I saw him tug viciously at his hip pocket. A blatan! honk, as he rounded the corner announced that he, too, had need of his handkerchief.

Who's Who at the U. of O.

Mrs. Mildred Gearhart, instructor of English Literature and Advanced English courses, comes to the University of Omaha from the Manhattan Kansas Teachers' College.

She obtained her Master of Arts degree at the Iowa State University. She has taught music at the University of Iowa and at Chicago.

Mrs. Gearhart's daughter, Helen Elizabeth, one year ago, is enrolled in the Melody Way class of the University of Omaha.

Mrs. Gearhart has numerous hobbies, among which are "young people, golf, and music." When questioned regarding her average golf score, she replied that it depended upon the number of strokes she took during the game.

In expressing her opinion of the University of Omaha, Mrs. Gearhart said enthusiastically, "I certainly appreciate the welcome given me by the faculty and students. My present reaction to the students is very favorable. There seems to be a personal touch in the University of Omaha. It is like belonging to one's family."

THE CUBS' CORNER

This literary corner is especially intended for the publication of amateur poetry and short prose selections written exclusively by the students of the University of Omaha. The encouragement of talent along literary lines is its earnest aim. Any contributions from students will be welcomed.

THE FAMOUS RETURN OF BERTRAM BEAK

(The faithful reader will remember that we left little Bertram last Spring on the ground. He was sobbing over the empty bottle of glue in which were the last remains of Dobbie, his beloved—horse.)

We find Bertram on the streets of Paris where he was left by the European Tour of the University of Omaha having failed to miss, having missed to fall, having, let's let it go and continue with the merry tale, what say?

A soft breeze was whooping it up from the south.

"And French she spak ful faire and fetisly,
After the scole of Qmha U atte Nebraskaow
For French of Paris was to hir unknowne," declared our hero relapsing into class-room meditation.

"I needs must assert my talented brain to good usage and find me an adventure, how's about it?" said Bertram.

Being Paris there needs must be a Knight Klub. We see little innocent Bertram entering the portals of the famous Soccoo Wee Wee French resort, but must leave him until next week.

Curtain.

THE VAMPIRE

Rudyard Kipling

(As suggested by the painting of Philip Burne-Jones)

A fool there was and he made his prayer

(Even as you and I)

To a rag and a bone and a hank of hair

(We call her the woman who did not care)

But the fool he called his lady fair

(Even as you and I)

Oh, the years we waste and the tears we waste

And the work of our head and hand

Belong to the woman we did not know

(And now we know she never could know)

And did not understand.

A fool there was and his goods he spent

(Even as you and I)

Honor and faith and a sure intent

(And it wasn't the least what the lady meant)

But a fool must follow his natural bent

(Even as you and I)

Oh the toll we lost and the spoil we lost

And the excellent things we planned

Belong to the woman who didn't know why

And did not understand.

The fool was stripped to his foolish hide

(Even as you and I)

Which she might have seen when she threw him aside

(But it isn't on record the lady tried)

So some of him lived but the most of him died

(Even as you and I)

And it isn't the shame and it isn't the blame

That stings like a white-hot brand

It's coming to know that she never knew why

(Seeing at last she could never know why)

And never could understand.

MY MAN PEABODY

In which the author gives his impressions after reading certain literature.

BY I GOTTA BOYLE

"Never have I seen such a goll," whispered Augustus, The Shark, to me as we sat over our empty drags, one morning late at night. "What a goll," repeated The Shark.

"Are you sure," I inquired, "that she will forever remain true to you?"

Having had some bit of sad experience with the brainier sex I was afraid for the soul of my master.

"You r-r-rat," snarled The Shark.

"Wouldst doubt the word of my lady, wouldst know that she has sworn to forever remain faithful, wouldst—," but he could speak no more because he was overcome by emotions.

We had been speaking of the famous R. case and the conversation had quite naturally drifted to women in general.

In one corner of the dusky den, the hideous hole, the filthy flop, sat an old man with whiskers. Long, grey whiskers, they was. They reminded me of one summer long ago when I worked my way through college in the barren fields. Ah, what a summer that was. I remember—forget it.

The old man was smoking a pipe.

A charred, burned, smokey pipe, it was. Kind of reminded me of—forget it. But let us drop the old man from the story. He served to give this a little description. Outside of that he doesn't amount to three rows of ten cent store pins.

In the other corner of the saloon was a common street dog. The dog was busily engaged running back and forth, round and round, up and down, hither and yon in pursuit of a large black tom-cat which of course was running also them same directions.

But let us drop the dog and cat from the story. They serve to give us action, a thing essential to every short and long story.

Suddenly the swinging doors of the place swung wide and there stood a wee child, a thin slice of bread in his hand and his mouth full of something and his eyes full of wonder and amazement at such a scene.

"Is my father in there?" asked the little boy.

(To be continued provided police quell the riot).

Question: "How did you make out with your automobile accident?"

Whine: "Oh, fine."

Hubb: (yelling signals) "Get me a date for the dance with yuh, Barber!"

Donkap: "Who's got a cigar?"

"Little Lessons in Lallupitsonian"

Being of a serious turn of mind, The Gateway is herewith presenting an educational feature, entitled "Little Lessons in Lallupitsonian." The words included are, in the judgment of those in authority, choice ones so that when your vocabulary runs low, you—well, you understand.

OKLUMSIFOMUWLLZE—An expression expressing your delight over arriving betimes to attend an eight o'clock on Monday morning, which you never did care for anyway.

URZIALOPRWBYENA—School yell when the opposing team's player grabs the ball and dashes down the gridiron for a touchdown.

QAWUOPWTHMELQRF—Compliment for editor to give to reporter who fails to get copy in and settles said editor at five o'clock Monday evening.

WERTYUOPLKJHFDGA—Shag words for the welcome to give to an unassuming neophyte who ruins what might have been a perfect day.

MNEVXCASDFGHJLKN—Phrase used in Gateway of the when dummy is being made up with three columns of copy missing.

JHVTYUMLKJHGFEDQW—The feeling of one's partner at the awkwardness displayed to the first attempt at a bridge.

Has Alumnus Issue

The Indiana Daily Student, publication of the Indiana University of Bloomington, Indiana, has issued a six-page alumnus paper.

The issue carries a list of over 5,000 persons who have paid pledges to the University of Indiana Memorial fund.

The university is collecting $4,500 which is needed to take the Indiana band to football games.

A thoroughly agreeable man is generally a weak one, lacking much in principle and will power, easily led, bent and broken.

To widen your life without deepening it is only to weaken it.

BE AT THAT CHADRON GAME!

RULES FOR ABSENCE

The following regulations regarding absences are now in effect at the university.

First. Primary absences are abolished and every unexcused absence counts as a penalty absence, with three tardies counting as an absence.

Second. Absences are excused in the following manner.

A. Absence slips are secured from the instructor, which slips contain reason for absence, instructor's signature, student's grade in course from which he is absent and instructor's recommendations as to the excuse thereof.

B. Instructor files card with Registrar.

C. Notice is then placed on bulletin board by Registrar instructing students to appear before Absence Committee.

D. In case of non-appearance of student at next regular Absence Committee meeting the absence is recorded as a penalty.

E. Proper notification is then made by the office to the student of the Committee's action relative to the sudden absence.

Honor Point System

Irwin A. Hammer, chairman of the Honor Point committee, has announced that the full details of the new method will be ready for publication in The Gateway on Oct. 16.

The Chapel Attendance system in brief is as follows: 55 to 72 times present at assembly gives a grade of A and three honor points. 45 to 54 times present at assembly gives a grade of B and two honor points. 35 to 44 times present at assembly gives a grade of C and one honor point.

34 and under times present during the school year falls the student. Attendance below 25 causes one honor point to be taken away.

Miss Neil Ward is secretary of the committee. Dean W. Gilbert James is the other member.

Rickabaugh and Roberts Speak At Second Y Meet

The Y. M. C. A. group of the University of Omaha held the second meeting of the year in the Y Den, second floor of Jacob's Hall, on Tuesday, Oct. 1, at ten o'clock. The time was given over to three student speakers who have had wide and varied experience in Y work.

Aids Chinese Girl

Lorraine Shonfelt, who has been among the foremost to promote Y activities on the University campus, told of the importance and place of the Y in college life. Mr. Shonfelt, stated that the big project ahead of the combined Y's this year is to aid in the supporting of a Chinese Christian girl who is going to school.

Phillip Rickabaugh and John Roberts, who are aiding Coach Howard on the football field this year, gave short talks on athletic ability and good character.

Meets on Tuesday

Y meetings are held every Tuesday morning in the Y Den. It is the duty as well as the privilege of every student on the campus to attend these meetings.

Werrenwrath Sings In Omaha Oratorio

Omaha Choral Union Will Present 1000 Voices to Omaha Public

Professor Logan has announced that he has secured as soloists for Handel's "Messiah," which is to be given soon under the auspices of the University of Omaha, Madame Arend, soprano; Lillian Knowles, contralto; Edwin Kemp, tenor; and Reginald Werrenwrath, baritone. All are artists of excellent repute and promise a real oratorio.

Professor Logan states that the Omaha Choral Union of 500 voices, which has been working on the "Messiah" for some time, will be augmented by choruses which he has been organizing in Council Bluffs, Missouri Valley, Tekamah, Fremont, Plattsmouth, and Blair. He expects to have a total of 1000 voices by the time the oratorio is presented.

Omaha Stays With Tarkio To Win, 6-3

RESORTS TO AIR ATTACK WITH KUNTZLEMAN TOSsing THE BALL

TARKIO PRESENTS LIGHT TEAM TO HEAVY OMAHA BACK-FIELD CARDINALS HITCH-HIKE WAY TO GAME

Cattle Trucks and Fords Engaged to Take Late Omahans "On to Tarkio" in Time For Game

WINNING SCORE IN LAST SIX SECONDS

Displaying real honest-to-goodness stamina and grit, the Omaha University Cardinals stuck with Tarkio on the Missouri field Saturday afternoon to make a final plunge in the last six seconds of play which brought home the bacon for the Nebraska lads to the tune of 6 to 3.

Hitch-Hike to Game

While the Cornhusker gang was resting easily at Lincoln, the Omaha boys were bumming their way on cattle-trucks to Tarkio. While the Cornhusker team was eating a well-balanced luncheon, the Omaha rowdies were nibbling at green apples. While the stadium at Lincoln was packed, and the cheering sections were wild, the cold bleachers on the Tarkio field were silent and empty. But Omaha won! Again Omaha won! Tarkio pulled a fast one this year by turning out a light-weight team and nearly wrecked havoc with the Cardinal back-field. Living up to the little birds whose colors they carry, the Cards took to the air, with Kuntzelman on the putting end. Twenty-two times Omaha sent the pill into the ozone. Nine times did Omaha grab the thing as it came down; netting a total ninety-two yard gain. The play that brought victory to the stubborn Cardinals was a pass.

Wilson Takes Three

It was in the second half that Tarkio scored the three wee points that would have meant the game had Omaha failed to stick. First Tarkio punted, then Omaha. Getting the better of the deal for a time, Tarkio sent in a little man named Wilson, who carries a goodly toe. A neat drop-kick from that toe found the ball planked between the goal-posts, where it was intended. Wilson, having done his bit, left the game.

SPORTITORIAL

OMAHA TOOK TARKIO

Mud, green apples, hitch-hikes, bumming rides, and what-not stood in the way of the Omaha team last Saturday. And did we win? Yes, we did!

After getting stuck in the mud on the way to Tarkio our team should have been very tired and weary. To everyone's surprise, especially Tarkio's, Omaha was merely warmed up and ready to go.

Even Coach Howard had a hard time getting to the game. The coin was well in the air before the Omaha boss puffed up to our side of the field.

The band was not there! Imagine twenty-five perfectly good musicians sitting at home and chewing their nails while the game went on!

But the Omaha Cardinals did it. They won the game fairly, and squarely, but, as one of the players who warmed the bench put it, "I don't ever want to go through such agony again. I want to be in there and FIGHT!"

We meet Chadron on our own field this Saturday. Let's get out there and show the boys we appreciate their taking Tarkio. Let's get in there and FIGHT!

CAGE THE EAGLES!

High, high, high, up in the sky flies The Eagle of Chadron Nebraska. "Without a doubt," shouts the front page of the school publication, "Chadron is headed for the championship this year. There will be no let-up until the last game is played, the last whistle is blown—and the last scream of the Eagles has echoed and died in the distant blue haze of the mystic, pine-clad buttes of Pine Ridge."

"Whoosh!" say we at this point. In all friendliness we wish to point out that Chadron forgot one thing in that bit of enthusiastic overture. Chadron has to play the Omaha Cardinals this Saturday. Remember! Dear me, what a break.

The eagle is a jolly old thing. He floats along in the skies, dreamy like, and seems to have nary a care in this cold, cruel world. The little cardinal on the other hand is busy all the time, flitting about here and there all the time, active, energetic, and anxious to accomplish things in a big way.

The Chadron Eagles are going to be caged this Saturday. No longer will they soar high, high, up in the sky. They are meeting old foes on the League Park field in the shape of thirty-three rip-roaring Cardinals. Omaha is going to cage the Eagle.

LET'S FOLLOW THE LEADER

Soldiers marching across a bridge are ordered to fall out of step. The steady tramp, tramp, tramp, of hundreds of feet would cause the bridge to collapse were not the order given.

Students cheering a team to victory are asked to fall in line with the cheerleaders. The steady rah, rah, rah, of hundreds of voices cannot help but improve the cheering section one hundred per cent.

Some cheerleaders have volunteered to lead in yells, not through the hope of gaining personal glory, but in an honest effort to aid their team to victory.

Why not try the old game of follow the leader? It might be a success. Omaha University has a real Pep Squad. Let's show them we are with them. What say?

Norfolk Game Pays $240 Gate Receipts

Season Tickets Sold Number
1005 With Aid of
Concord Club

Approximately 1000 season tickets to the U. of O. football games have been sold to date, according to Irwin A. Hammer. The exact proceeds have not yet been determined, since all tickets and money have not been turned in. Mr. Hammer and Don B. Amsden, secretary of the Concord Club, had charge of the sales.

Mr. Amsden and the Concord Club deserve much credit for the co-operation shown toward the games. Not only were their cars in the pep parade, their voices in the rooting for Omaha, but they also had much to do with the $240 collected in gate admissions at the first game, and with the success of the ticket drive as a whole.

With but forty seconds left to win or lose, Omaha grabbed the ball on their own side of the field. Kuntzelman shot a perfect 30-yard pass to Mrkvicka, who tore down the field to Tarkio's six yard line before he was downed.

Streitwieser Gains Two Yards

Seventeen seconds left and Tarkio 3, Omaha 0. Streitwieser forgot about his lame neck and pushed the ball down to the Tarkio four-yard line.

Six seconds to go!

Kuntzelman plowed through the Tarkio gang as though it were the same sticky mud he had so recently left. Omaha's ball on Tarkio's three-yard line. Once again came Kuntzelman to leave the pig-hide on the old one-yard line.

Two seconds to play!

Longmeyer Goes Over!

Bang! Just like that, and Longmeyer was over the line and the game was well in the sack for Omaha!

An attempted pass from Kuntzelman to Mrkvicka fizzled, but who cares about that.

Tarkio tried to receive the ball from the middle of the field but the delayed pop from the time gun told the world that the game was over.

Hatcher played a bang-up position at center while Capp and Burns of Tarkio pounded him right and left. Hatcher undoubtedly displayed the greatest defense in the Omaha line.

Captain B. Huff seemed to fill in a lot of holes. His offense was ever there. His defense was everywhere. Arthur helped Mrkvicka to get his wind and showed that he could toss the ball a bit himself.

Bolen dropped into the game during the first half to give Streitwieser a rest and showed that he still had the old stuff. Streitwieser couldn't stay out and went in again for the last half.

Coach Howard did little substituting, which was well. The whole game was a see-saw affair and a bad move might have meant farewell blues for the Cards.

The summary:

Omaha (6)	Tarkio (3)
Stevens	L. E. Mumford
Hanson	L. T. Statler
Clausen	L. O. Gordon

Quinn's Quips

About this time of the year, many football coaches with good prospects for a successful season begin to wonder if that 11' old jinx named Injuries is going to dim their star. This 11' jinx is no respecter of persons and he hampers every squad in the country, none excepted.

It seems that Coach Howard has been visited by this demon already. Three members of the squad: Van-Dyke, Sheppard and Haney are now numbered among the serious casualties.

In all probability, the last two will see little service for the remainder of the season. "Gramps" VanDyke will probably be back in suit this week if the "doc" gives his O. K.; "Gramps" has been a-rarin' to go for a week.

This rarin'-to-go spirit seems to be one of the predominant thoughts of these unlucky warriors. The writer has personally talked to two of them and has heard the other express his sorrow at being out. All three maulers would give a couple of loads of face brick to be back in the fray.

This "never say die" spirit is present to some degree in every member of the team, and is an asset that can hardly be overestimated. If that spirit remains constant throughout the season, it will make the task of Coach Howard considerably lighter.

One other thing would make the load of coaching much easier in the appearance of the same aggressive spirit of the squad in the student body. This team is working long and hard hours and a lot of splendid, co-operative rooting will do much toward assuring them that it will be appreciated.

Last week two new faces showed themselves at the Card's Camp. These newcomers were "Tubs" Bolen of last year's squad and Al Condon, letterman of 1927. Such a welcome as those two got is not to be described in mere words. "Tubs" is expected to help fill the backfield gap left by Herb Sheppard's injuries while Condon will be used to bolster the line.

Next Saturday the Cardinals tackle the Chadron Eagles at League Park in what from the forehand notices will be a real scrap. Coach Stark has fifteen letter men along with the finest bunch of new material in Chadron's history. Stark attended Dick Hawley's coaching school this summer and picked up plenty of new dope for the Eagles. These Eagles seem to have their eye set on the championship but one obstacle yet to be overcome is the outfit of Coach Howard. Howard also has the grandest outlay in the school history, and he further has experience, agility, beef, brawn, brain, and pep in his group.

Be prepared to see a great game Saturday and also to witness the phenomena of a flock of cardinals making a horde of Eagles look like gnats.

TARKIO NOTES

As the Tarkio game opened last Saturday, two airplanes soared over the new field and dropped the football. The weather was ideal for the game. A light breeze from the south kept the players cooled.

Tarkio has a new gymnasium. According to reports from the Omaha team, the new gridiron is one of the best in the west. It is a sodded field, well-equipped with bleachers to hold any number of rooters.

8 out of 23 for 34 yards; two intercepted.

Penalties—Omaha 60 yards, Tarkio 45 yards.

Punts—Omaha, 1 for average of 24 yards; Tarkio, 11 for average of 20 yards.

Punts returned—Omaha, 13 yards; Tarkio, 20 yards.

Fumbles—Omaha 2, 3 recovered; Tarkio 1, 2 recovered.

Officials: Referee—Haines, Umpire—Hahn, Hampden, Head Linesman—Adams, Mincey.

Denver Youth Wins Plane Scholarship

Omaha Students Number Among
1500 Contestants for Air
Awards

A scholarship to Guggenheim school of aeronautics, New York university, valued at $1,000, is the reward won by Paul C. Spless, Denver, Colo., in the Eaglerock Awards competition sponsored by the Alexander Aircraft company among undergraduate college students throughout the United States.

Submits Four Papers

Spless submitted four papers on "Height Above-Ground Altimeters." They included calculations and experimental problems resulting from his study of the subject. He was a freshman at the University of Colorado last year and an honor student.

After Spless has completed his technical education he hopes to find a job which will give him some part in building and designing airplanes. He has already shown marked aptitude for technical subjects as indicated by his grades which were among the highest of those earned by freshman engineering students. Spless states that by doing his work thoroughly rather than hurriedly, he has found that he could make better grades.

Airplane Given Away

Fifteen hundred college students competed for the Eaglerock Awards. Besides the scholarship, an Eaglerock airplane valued at $3,500 and sixteen flying courses valued at $300 each were given as prizes.

Local "Graham McNamee:" "Get the old chatter out there. Sock it on the nose. Hurray."

Sorority Pledge: "Which team is Creighton?"

Cheer-leader: "Awright now. Three yea boos for South High."

Band Leader: "Have you been reading the same piece all the time?"

Kubat: "Be careful with those peanuts, you're liable to get shell-shocked."

Vachel Lindsay Lauds Younger Generation

"In my six months' tour of colleges and universities," writes Vachel Lindsay in the November College Humor, "I noted among the students and young professors a tide that is rising, the Cavalier spirit in a 1929-1930 form."

"Our younglings believe in the divine right of splendor, neither the splendor of kings nor of Babbitts, but the splendor of their own sense of design, the divine right to choose and put on their own pageants, to give Maypole dances and elect their own queen of the May."

Youth Has Freedom

"They believe in freedom in choice of religion more than any other group of citizens of the United States, and a typical committee for a Washington's Birthday celebration of distinction and even grandeur may be a Catholic, a Christian Scientist, a Jew, a Unitarian and a kid from Chicago still ballyhooing about Ingersoll watches and Robert G. Ingersoll. But they work in harmony and friendship to the end of achieving this new splendor, which challenges and destroys the Babbitts, who are their own blood fathers."

Students Are Original

"And they hate above all the caste system, temporarily created by Babbitt, which puts the business man above the artist in every field of life. Their form of Americanism would put the born artist above the whole business system of America and keep him there, with his heel on the neck of Babbitt, whatever the blood or stock or race or family history of the artist. If that is a cast system, they have indeed a cast system."

"They are not Cavaliers in the sense, in which Cavaliers of old England fought Cromwell and Milton. Quite the contrary. If a Cromwell or Milton should appear, they would follow him and sing with him to the death. They hate the little cowards and will follow the bold and gallant spirits wherever they find them."

"Dashing" Cavaliers

"And they are brilliant, dashing, decorative, always on horseback in imagination, and in that sense they are Cavaliers."
